INFORMATION RELEASE

Rough Landing at Nut Tree Airport Under Investigation

April 23, 2010

Solano County Sheriff's Office

On today's date at approximately 11:40 AM, a Cessna 310 aircraft attempted to land at the Nut Tree Airport, in Vacaville, at which time the front landing gear collapsed. The plane was piloted by John Poundstone, a 71-year old resident of Vacaville. The aircraft suffered moderate to extensive damage as a result of the landing. No other aircraft were involved in the incident. There were no injuries or deaths reported.

County officials have contacted the Federal Aviation Administration and the National Transportation Safety Board to report the event. This incident is under investigation. All further media inquiries should be directed to the appropriate investigative agencies.
